

A Dynamic Virtual Learning Series – Four Sessions, Four Themes

Building a learning community with people, families & allies from Windsor-Essex & beyond!

Exploring the Power of Support Circles

“A Support Circle is a group of dedicated people who gather intentionally for the purpose of finding ways to support a person who has a disability to make decisions and move their life forward so that they are able to live a rich and meaningful life.”

About this four-part series, presented by Judith McGill

For people with disabilities, making the decision to form a Support Circle can be the most important decision of their life. For families, supporting their loved one to invite others to form a Support Circle can be one of the most courageous and remarkable steps they will ever take. Although, inviting others to enter into a deeper relationship in this way makes people and their families feel particularly vulnerable, it also opens up so many new possibilities for taking-action and coming to know the true meaning of community.

This unique series invites people with disabilities, their family and/or loved ones as well as independent facilitators/supporters to learn together. Based on prior interest some spots have been reserved for participants from outside Windsor-Essex. Register for any or all four sessions now at the link below.

The four sessions are designed to be inspirational, and at the same time provide clarification and what to keep in mind going forward.

Families who take the series together will greatly benefit from learning among others. They will gain a deeper appreciation for how their family can work with others to begin investing in the future.

Support Circles are a place where the person is held by the members in such a way that they experience their own humanity and possibility. Where people are supported to have a real say in their lives. It is a place where they come to know community and belonging, a place where they come to have an authentic experience of mutual giving and receiving.
